

Dr. James M. Morris

Native of Michigan.

Ph.D. University of Cincinnati, 1969.

Christopher Newport University, 1971-2005,
Now Professor Emeritus of History.

Books Authored:

America's Armed Forces, 1991, 2nd. ed.
1996

Readings in American Military History,
2004

*Historical Dictionary of the United States
Navy*, 1998, 2nd ed. 2011

History of the U.S. Navy, 1984,
1993, 2002

History of the U.S. Army, 1986, 1992, 2002.

Courses taught:

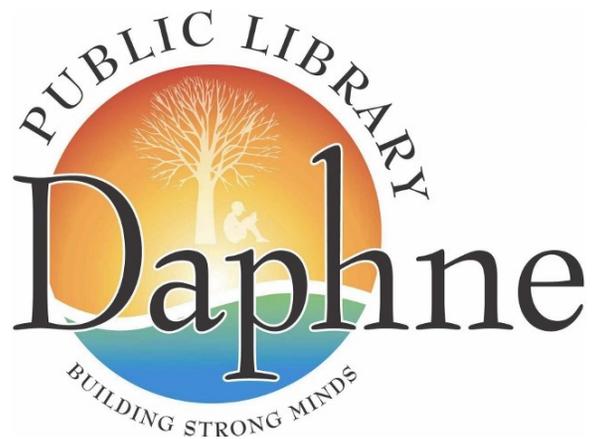

American Military History

Civil War and Reconstruction

Great Battles of the Civil War

Great Battles of World War II

The Vietnam War

Daphne Public Library

2607 US Hwy 98 & Whispering Pines Rd

PO Box 1225

Daphne, AL 36526

251-621-2818

www.daphnelibrary.org

Speaker:
Dr. James M. Morris

World War I

Saturday History Series
Fall 2015

Topics & Dates

Session One

WWI: National Interests

Daphne Recreation Center

Saturday, September 12, 2015

10:00 am

Session Two

WWI: Battles

Daphne Recreation Center

Saturday, September 19, 2015

10:00 am

Session Three

WWI: Aftermath

Daphne Recreation Center

Saturday, September 26, 2015

10:00 am

World War I, 1914—1918: A Bloody Turning Point in the History of the West

An in-depth survey into the coming of conflict, the horror of the stalemate on the Western Front, and the peacemaking in the aftermath that brought about the weakening of Western values and the advent of World War II. We will cover the matter of European states' national pride and the assumptions of quick victory, the bloody, trench warfare and America's entry in 1917, European disillusionment and the coming of World War II, and the disastrous setting of maps and borders in the Middle East that set the stage for the many conflicts that continue to devolve into utter chaos today.

